

Starting a Banquet Club

The resources in this notebook are only as helpful as the effort that is put into using them. They are not ends in themselves, they are means to a greater goal, intimacy with God. While we each must trust God to give us the “desire and the power to do what pleases Him” (Phil 2:13), we also know that accountability is an important part of success. God meant for us to work together, to hold each other up, and to encourage one another in life. And so, as we begin to learn how to be more creative and to enjoy our time with God more fully, we can come alongside one another in the process.

Here’s the plan:

1. Find 3 or 4 other women who are committed to putting the principles of Come to the Banquet into practice in their quiet times. List them here.

2. Make a plan to meet together once a month to share your progress.

3. Give me a copy of this form and receive a Starter Kit to help you get things going!

Date Form Submitted _____	Kit Received _____

4. Spend your time together something like this:

Process—what you’ve been working on and what you’ve added to your notebook over the past few weeks. Jot down ideas that you hear from others and may want to try. Affirm each other in your growth in intimacy.

Put—something new in your notebook that you work on together during your meeting time; a collage, doodle art, letter to God, etc.

Pray—together for intimacy with Christ; share what you have been/will be praying for next.

Promises—share with each other: What are you claiming? What are you memorizing? What is becoming a part of your “vocabulary” as you spend time with God?

Plan—What are you going to do before the next time you meet together? How will you hold each other accountable? Determine a date and time for your next get together.

5. I would love to hear from you as you start this journey! Take a picture of your group meeting together, have each person write a paragraph about how the group is an encouragement, write down some of the creative ideas you’ve practiced together! Send these things to me at kwarin@navigatorsabq.org and I’ll feature your group in an upcoming CTTB Newsletter!
